Welcome and Introductions

Role of the PSI

- Pharmacy Act 2007 requires PSI to:
 - Protect the health and safety of the public by regulating the profession of pharmacy and pharmacies
 - Take action to improve the profession of pharmacy
- Scope of PSI's remit:
 - 5285 pharmacists
 - 452 pharmaceutical assistants
 - 1837 retail pharmacy businesses
- 21 member Council – majority non-pharmacists
- Significant programme of work since 2007 to meet obligations under Pharmacy Act

How does the PSI do its job?

Area	Key activity

Why Regulate the Profession?

- Essential for professions involved in irreversible care and treatment of patients e.g. doctors, dentists, nurses, pharmacists
- Requires and enables professionals to practise their profession in a controlled and safe environment, focussed on the safety and interests of their patients
- Protects public health by ensuring that practitioners are trained, qualified and competent within their scope of practice
- Clear declaration of standards expected of the profession
- Maintains public confidence in the profession

Principles that Underpin Regulation

- Serving and protecting the public interest
- Safeguarding patient welfare
- Promoting patient protection
- Promoting risk assessment and mitigation

And ... balancing this public interest protection with fairness to the practitioner

Getting the Balance Right in Regulation

Regulator-driven

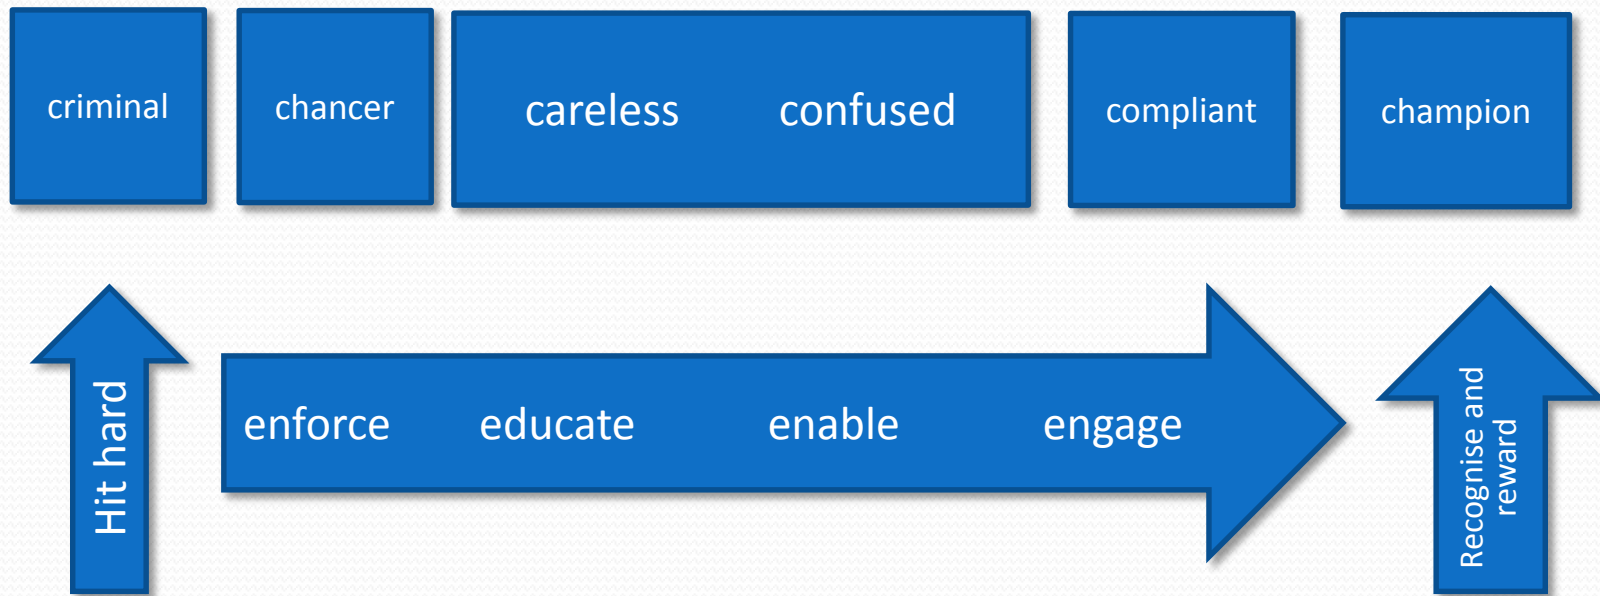

Disciplinary action
Inspection
Enforcement etc.

Practitioner-driven

Quality management
Self-audit
Learning from errors etc.
